IVES AND STAYNER GET OUT.

A WRECKING CREW PUT ABOARD C., H.

AND DA'S DISMANTLED TREASURY. The Creditors Going for Bob Garrett's 18,000 Shares or Preferred, and for the Aimighty Pile Pawned with Commodo e Starbuck-Where Are Dayton and Chicago's Bonds !

The creditors of Henry S. Ives & Co., the putative bankers, made a little progress yeserday. They succeeded in getting George H. stayner, one of Ives's partners, out of the Presidency of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Ratiroad Company, and they ousted Ives himself from the Vice-Presidency. Stay-ner was rather crushed by the operation, but Ives, as chipper as ever, told the reporters that they had retired voluntarily in the best interests of the property.

The chances are that Mr. Ives did not sincerely subscribe to the last part of his state-ment. Indeed, it is quite likely that he really believed it untrue. As a matter of fact, the first part of his statement was untrue. Ives and Stayner were allowed to retain their seats in the Board of Directors for reasons that will ubtless appear in due time.

Mr. A. S. Winslow of Cincinnati was elected President of the company, and Christopher Meyer of this city Vice-President, Mr. Julius Dexter of Cincinnati was elected a director. A committee consisting of Meyer. Dexter, and C. C. Waite, who is General Manager of the company, was appointed to investigate the affairs of the company and its relations with Ives & Co. new Napoleon of Finance was pleased to say that he selected this committee.

The committee spent the afternoon in going over the books of the company in Its office in over the books of the company in its office in the Astor building. The books showed that $1,000,000 preferred stock had been issue', letter series A and B. This is the stock that was sold for money that was paid into the treasury. The committee also found that $3,500,000 of preferred stock, series C. had been issued. This is the stock for which no money was paid into the treasury: in fact, no consideration was received. Ives and Stayner, either in their official capacity as fiscal agents of the company or in their capacity of would-be speculators in railroads, used part of it to margin up the loans of Ives & Co., and also gave liberally of it to Mr. Robert Garrett on account of the ootion on Baitimore and Ohio stock that he sold to them. The cash accounts of the company were not straightened out, for it will require much time to go over them.

Having found out how much preferred stock was outstanding, some of the people most largely interested in the Ives commications began to devise schemes for what would practically amount to a reorganization of the Ives syndicate. About three-quarters, or $0,000 shares, of the common stock and five-sixths of the preferred atock, or about $35,000 shares, were offered to Measrs. Samuel Thomas, C. S. Brice, and their friends for $3,000,000. The offer was declined. The rest of the day was spent in trying to get up some sort of a successor to Ives & Co., but without success. The complications are so many, with some of them clearly indicating long lines of litigation, that the Astor building. The books showed that complications are so many, with some of them clearly indicating long lines of litigation, that no one wants to relieve the present incumbents of their burdens.

cessor to Ives & Co., but without success. The complications are so many, with some of them clearly indicating long lines of litigation, that no one wants to relieve the present incumbents of their burdens.

"The property is valuable enough," said one well-known capitalist," and there is doubtless money in taking it at the figures it can be bought at, but most people get all the lawsuits they want without buying any.

Ives & Co. evidently favor something in the nature of a trusteeship of their interest in the camplications, in order, presumably, to try to secure whatever equity there may be. But the creditors generally do not favor it. The whole business is so hampered by the peculiar relations between Ives and some of his creditors, especially Mr. Christopher Meyer, that the chances are that the other creditors will eventually see that it will be for their interests to secure the appointment of a disinterested receiver or assignee for the firm.

As was indicated in THE Sun last Sunday, Mr. Meyer has, according to some accounts and legal decisions, practically put himself in the position of a partner in Ives & Co.'s schemes. In at least one instance, that of the Hon. Russell Sage. Mr. Meyer guaranteed the nayment of a time loan of $350,000 after Ives & Co. a partner in Ives & Co. have similar assurances, while William Fellowes Morgan & Co. claim to be secured against loss on their $2,000,000 loan by some sort of an arrangement with Mr. Meyer. Mr. Meyer or those representing him, have tried to get William Fellowes Morgan & Co. and Mr. B. Harrison of Cincinnati, who is the largest creditor of Ives & Co. in that town, to pool their issues with him, but without success.

Upon the surface the only interest Mr. Meyer appears to have in the matter is as the holder of 6,000 Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton stock, but when his relations with the firm, and more especially with Mr. Stayner, become public, stronger reasons for his present interest in the affairs of Ives & Co. will be clear. It is understood that the relatio he was selling the yacht for double what it cost him. Possito: he reasoned that he needed additional collateral in lieu of Mr. Meyer's guarantee.

Although it is pretty generally conceded in Wall street that the character and probable extent of Ives & Co.'s complications are so well understood that they have ceased to be a factor in speculation, there was a general feeling of relief yesterday when it was announced that Ives and Stayner had at last been unconditionally bounced from their position at the head of the C., H. and D. Company. The more the street learns about the Ives complications the more readily does it institute comparisons with the affairs of Grant & Ward, and the expression is universal that the State is the most judicious director of the energies of financiers of the stamp of Ives and Stayner. Shortly before the close of the Block Exchange the Board member of Ives & Co. (and the fact should not be overlocked that the firm is still a member of the New York Stock Exchange in good and regular standing) began to bid up C., H. and D. stock, in which nothing had been said since the sale of 100 shares on Monday afternoon at 40. He bid it up 10 points at a time until he bid 100, when the broker who bought the 100 shares yesterday at 40 loaded him with 100 shares. The purchase, like those of a few weeks ago when 1,100 shares was sold, was doubtless for Mr. Meyer.

The Cincinnati directors and Henry S, Ives had a pow-wow last evening in the Hoffman House. It was stated by a Cincinnati director of C, H, and D, that thereafter Secretary P woodruff's powers would be clipped. Woodruff is a clerk in Ives's "banking" house. Hereafter Assistant Becretary F. H. Short of Cincinnati will exercise the functions of the office, and all stock of the company will be issued by him in Cincinnati and registered in New York.

AFTER THE PLUMBERS' STRIKE,

Complaint that the Knights Lost it by The members of Local Association 35 of plumbers of this city, who are affliated with the International Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Steam and Gasfitters, are out with a circular in which they say that the K. of L. and the Board of Walking Delegates are trying to drive the Association plumbers back into the K. of L., by ordering strikes wherever possible against them. The circular is directed to the Building Trades of New York. and those interested in the labor movement. It says: We are aware of the many hard names applied and standers uttered against us by those leaders who ruined one of the best local associations in the country, whom we refused to trust or follow any longer, and who are frantic in consequence of such decision. These acts and utterances against us we have treated with slient so but for the fact that others, without taking pains to inform themselves, have become a party to their acts of persecution.

We are not enemies of the K of L. Those who would advance the cause of labor can be no enemies of ours, we believe in the fundamental principles of the K. of L. but not in its practice of to-day especially as exemplified by those men. We believe in home rule—in the cobbler "sticking to his last."

Here is the cause of much trouble in the ranks of labor in a nutshell. We organized for a special purpose, with a special knowledge of our wants. Then commenced the effort carried on to this day, to deatroy the men who had the courage to be for the craft first, last, and all the time, in which the iron band of the Home Club was felt, and the New York Association. following the hier impediture of the convention. But the men who labored to build up the organization did not lose hope, and pleaded again and again for harmony. They were answered with jeers, and at last gave up in despair, after which those who brought about the split had their own way.

They took charge of an organization second to none. One act of foily followed another, until they raised their hands against boys earning a living as mere helpers, which brought about the late lockout in which they charge us with leaving them in their hour of need. The truth is we paid in our money week after week and month after month, even advanced money, and they could be however, while they were draining the treasuries of friendly organizations, after they had surrendered the apprenticeship question, and the right to be paid on Saturday, and allowed the sh pet to be tilled with helpers. But we did not remain slent or inactive when it was preven that permission was being given to men to acabit on the quick or when some of the best men were hounded while hundreds were left untouched.

Then commenced the effort to prove that we were not union men and to drive us back into the order by strikes. We have counted the cost and are prepared for it. inform themselves, have become a party to their acts President James E. Davis of Local Associa-ion 35 wrote a letter to Local Association 1,992 calling attention to this persecution. The answer, ho says, was a still bitterer persecution.

About five months ago an attempt to burn Becker's cooperage, 293 when evenue, Williamsburgh, was made. It was discovered and the fire put out. No trace of the fire bug could be discovered. A week later another attempt was made to burn the same premises, and several months later the place was set on fire for a third time. The flames this time gained considerable headway, but the barking of a dog led to their discovery, and they were extinguished.

Detectives Short and Corooran suspected Purb. but they were unable to get any direct evidence against him. No less than six attempts have been made to fire the tenement in which Purbs lives. At one time Purbs warned Mrs. Anna Becker, the housekeeper, that there was a fire in the cellar, and at another time some children discovered fire in the same place. William Powers, a watchman in Weidman's cooperage, once saw Purbs in the hallway of his residence, at 4 o'clock in the morning, in his stocking feet.

The New Yorker Zeitung has been set on fire six times recently. Purbs is a compositor in the office. He was remanded yesterday for examination to-day.

A dozen men grabbed scaling ladders and climbed like monkeys to the top of the lofty building. Bang went a mortar, and a life line was sent salling over the building. Tom Reynolds, on the roof, seized the line, wound it two or three times around the snap hook at his best, and shoved Norman Jerolomon over the coping. Jerolomon had a couple of hitches of the line around his body, and came sailing down to the ground amid the cheers of the visitors. The life savers swarmed from the windows and went silding down the rope one after the other. Simon Murray feigned that he was disabled, and William O'Hrien carried him down and Gustave Fuhrmann showed how two men could go all over the face of a building with only one ladder. The extension ladders of the truck and little ones held by a tripod were run up, and men crawled over them like flies to the windows. "They are going to jump!" the boys on the fence should as men appeared at the third-story windows, and a moment later Martin Callagy landed in a drup net held by his comrades. Feter McDermott followed him. They landed so easily that B. J. Corwin of Matteawan tried it. He jumped only from the second floor. The net seemed to be made of rubber that time. Corwin bunced back to the level of the window from which he jumped, and landed upside down in the net. Up he went spain and again, until he sefree the standard with both hands and clung to it three cheers for Honner, and went fahing the rest of the afternoon. GARRISON STARTS A STABLE.

HE PURCHASES ONE OF MR. CASSATT'S HORSES AND WINS HIM OUT.

The Bard Captures the Entontown Stakes Sir Dixon Joins the Star Two-Year-Olds -A Splendid Day's Racing at Monmonth. Jockey Garrison was about the lucklest man among the 9,000 and odd that attended the races at Monmouth Park yesterday. After Mr. Cassatt's four-year-old colt Eolian won the opening race last Saturday, Garrison became impressed with the idea that the son of Eolus and Calash was a better horse than his owner believed him to be. So he offered Mr. Cassatt's agent $3.500 for the colt, securing him at that price. Then Garrison entered Eolian for the opening race, a handleap sweepstakes of $25 each, with $750 added, at three-quarters of a mile. The Snapper's next move was to place $1,000 on his horse at odds of 3 to 1 against him. This, with $2,000 more placed on the horse through a telegraph order, brought the post odds down to 9 to 5, with plenty of takers. Pittsburgh Phil was also among the earliest backers of Eolian. His bet of $100 on the same horse on Saturday, when he claimed that another man had been given his ticket in mistake for one of $5, caused the first public betting dispute of the season at Monmouth.
Garrison rode his horse yesterday in Capt.
Sam Brown's colors. Starting well up with the leaders, he bided his time until he made the issue in the homestretch. Then he sent Eolian out in the last furlong, looking round to see what the field was doing. There was nothing in the lot to hold the pace with Eolian. Garrison landed him an easy winner by two lengths in 1:15—one of the fastest performances on the track this season. The horse had won himself out in his first race for his new owner.
One of the judges informed a SUN reporter that they had decided to send the case of the changed tickets back to the bookmakers for settlement, in the belief that it was similar to that of a stolen ticket. Later on it was said that the affair will not be settled until Saturday.

The race of the day was the Eatontown another man had been given his ticket in mis-

that the affair will not be settled until Saturday.

The race of the day was the Eatontown Stakes, at a mile, in which The Bard, Barnum, Preciosa, Osceola, and Climax came out to do battle. The Bard was a tremendous favorite in the betting, although the old campaigner, Barnum, was greeted with the llon's share of applause while proceeding to the post. battle. The Bard was a tremendous avoing in the betting, although the old campaigner, Barnum, was greeted with the lion's share of applause while proceeding to the post. The Bard sulked and bucked when he faced the flag, and did not appear willing to measure strides with the small field. He ran in third place at the start, while Proceosa showed the way round the turn to the backstretch by two open lengths, Climax taking up the running at the half mile, and The Bard taking fourth place alongside of Barnum, Oscoola trailing in the rear. Climax held the lead on the long bend to and into the homestretch, Preciosa running second, lapped by The Bard and Barnum when well into the stretch, Climax. Preciosa, and Barnum were leading The Bard, and at haif a furlong from home the race looked dubious for The Bard. His backers held their breath for fear that Hayward had waited too long. Then relief came when they saw Hayward move The Bard forward rapidly, the colt responding like a race horse to the prick of the steel and beating Preciosa in by neck and shoulders in the last lifty yards. The mile was run in 1:43%. The track was dry and first for Monmouth.

Eleven juveniles appeared in the scramble of three-quarters of a mile for the Camden Stakes. It was a great betting race, Green Morris's bay colt Bir Dixon, son of Billet and Jaconet, carrying the bulk of the money. The colt had been timed in a last trial a week ago, in which he had made the distance in 1:125, some said a quarter less. This pace would down almost any two-year-old on Monmouth's slow track. Blaylock rode the colt. Moving away in the ruck, he held a safe place while Filtawsy, Austrienne, and Fordham made the running, each leading by turn, until the struggle came in the stretch, when Sir Dixon took the track in the last half furiong, winning handly two lengths in front of Austrienne.

Coroner Messemer's autopsy upon the body den death of the deceased was due to heart disease, ag-gravated by excessive eigaretic smoking. Coroner Mes-semer said yesterday that he had learned that young Knevals smoked regularly as many as sixty cigaretics a day. The effect had been to produce the fundamental derangoment known as "smoker's heart." Young Knevals's brain was also congested, a condition due to the imperfect action of the heart, and death had result-ed from coma produced by the congestion.

There was a funeral service for young Knevals yester-day at his father's house. Many lawyers were present. The Rev. W. Haboock of the Church of the Heavenly Rest conducted the services. The burial was in Wood-lawn.

Since then he has been enjoying a long spree. Yesterday morning a woman who lives in the apartments adjoining his, heard a number of loud reports coming from his room. She called the bartender from the saloon below. Hanson was living on the bed, and the blood was flowing from four pistol-shot wounds in his head. He had shot himself in the forehead and temple. An ambulance was called, and when Policeman McGinn and the surgeon heiped lian-ou down stairs, he said to McGinn: "You're a hig man, but I could keel you over." He was taken to Bellevue Hospital Hospital

The pistol was a very little one, and Hanson may recover. He is 54 years old.

BOSTON GOES TO PIECES.

BEATEN BY PITTSBURGH WITH THE SCORE OF 23 TO 3.

an Almost Lest Game-Chicago Yields to Philadelphia-Victory for New York.

By the scores of at least two of the League games vesterday it looked as though a cyclone had struck their pitchers. Detroit pulled out a victory by batting the Washington pitcher for eight runs in the last inning, Boston failed to overcome the Pittsburghers' lead of 23 to 3, and Chicago retired at the end of its game with Philadelphia with a defeat of 17 to 4. New York won with little trouble. In the Association, St. Louis, Louisville, and Brooklyn won, and the Metropolitan and Baltimore clubs played a tie game. The record now stands:

INDIANAPOLIS. 5; NEW YORE, 10. Indianapolis, Aug. 8.—New York won to-day's game by luck, having made in several instances hits and runs after chances were offered to retire the third man. This was especially a marked feature in the third and sixth innings, when the wretched misjudgment of Polhemus in right field, yielded the visitors at least four runs. Healy's pitching was very effective, except in the innings where the hits were bunched. The visitors secred one in the second inning. Connor led off with a safe hit to middle. Ewing hit to Glasscock, who retired Connor at second. Gillespie then hit to Schomberg and was retired at first, lewing taking second. Richardson then hit to Schomberg who, by a fumble and a poor effort to recover the hall. He Ewing and a poor effort to recover the hall. He Ewing second and provided on Weich's hit, which Healy could not get in time to retire the runner. Gore then hit to Bassett, which retired Weich at second. Tiernan advanced Gore to second on a sacrifice to Shomberg, ward hit to tilasscock, outrunning the ball to first. Hoth then scored on Connor's two base drive to Fight, which Polhemu falled to secure, after which he went to third on a passed ball. Ewing took first on halls and stole second. In the attempt to shut off the runner Connorscored. One more was added in the fifth inning after two men were out. Connor went to second on Polhemus's head.

In the sixth inning three more runs were added, all of which were earned. Density was retired by Glasscock to Shomberg. Weich hit the for the only Glasscock to Shomberg. Weich hit the for the only field. Ewing retired the side by going out from Bassett to Shomberg. Their two final runs were made in the eighth inning, tore hit to left safely, and in attempting to score on Tiernan's three-base drive to right field. Ewing retired the side by going out from Bassett to Shomberg. The Brooklym yesterday, by defeating the Athletica, completed the fine record (for them) of five straight victories. The battery work of the visitors was somewhat weak, and the field support weaker. All their errors were costly. Added to this, the Brooklyms got in hits just about the time the errors were made, and were thus enabled to get a winning lead. The Athletics got their hits well toget errors the first manifest inhings, but not enough runs were accured from them to win. Toole at first, smith at short, and Greer at left, did remarkably elever work. Brilliant plays were distributed all through the game, and went far toward increasing the interest. The score:

The Stock Exchange markets showed very little life to-day. At the same time there was a perceptible improvement in the tone. Some very vigorous efforts were made to depress prices, especially in the Granger stocks. Early in the day there was some comparatively heavy selling of both Northwest and St. Paul, espe cially the former. These sales appeared to be largely for Chicago account and with the view of recovering the stock at lower prices. Chicago is bearish because it lost a good deal of money in the collapse of the wheat deal, and, moreover, the bear leaders have taken advantage of this circumstance to do some effective missionary work in Chicago. Chicago reciprocates by trying to convince Wall street that the corn crop is practically a failure. There

A Perilous Postponement.

To postpone, when the duty for immediate action is clear is always unwise. Especially is it so when increasing ill health calls for a resort to medication. Diseases of the kidneys and bladder are often of swift growthalways of fatal tendency if not combated at the outset. We have all—even those of us who are not remarkably well instructed—heard something of the danger attending Bright's disease, diabetes, and other diseases of the kidneys or bladder. Let no one be foolhardy enough to procrastinate if he perceiveache renal organs to be in-active. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are peculiarly active. Insiletter's commen interest are pendaring adapted to overcome this inaction, to sufficiently stimulate, without exciting, the kidneys and bladder. Infinitely is this disretic to be preferred to the impure and nery stimulants of commerce, which prove the bane of unwary persons with a tendency to renal troubles. They are likewise incomparable for dyspepsia, debility, fever and ague, and biliousness.
